ABOUT THE STATE

Prof. Charles S. Conant of New Hampshire, a tenor singer, will sing in and take charge of a festival to be held in Hardwick August 18, for the benefit of the John S. Holden Memorial Hospital.

A great fish story which was going the rounds along the lake front in Burlington Friday afternoon was vouched for by scores of dock hands and canal boat people. James Percival, who owns a canal boat, while fishing off the dock was said to have caught a fish that was a cross between an eel and a lizard. The fish, or reptile, was the size of a large eel, but had four small feet. Percival was fishing for perch, so the story goes, when he hooked the deep-sea monster.

Major H. B. Hersey of the department of agriculture, with headquarters at Milwaukee, Wis., was in Burlington Friday and inspected officially the local United States weather station. Major Hersey was accompanied by N. L. Sheldon of Boston. Major Hersey has been closely associated with Walter Wellman in the latter's aerostatic experiments in search of the North Pole. Both Major Hersey and Mr. Sheldon are graduates of Norwich university, Northfield, and have just attended commencement exercises at their alma mater.

Robert G. McCuen, a brother of N. J.
McCuen of Vergennes, committed suicide Tuesday by throwing himself from an overhanging rock just above the high falls in Deer river near Copenhagen, N. Y., into the waters 150 feet below.
McCuen had been in the hardware business in Copenhagen for the past twenty-five years. About three weeks ago he returned home, apparently much improved in health. Except that it was due to mental depression, Mr. McCuen's act cannot be accounted for.

Struck by Electric Car and Killed.

George Reid of Hardwick, while in Montreal recently, was struck by an electric car and killed instantly. Mr.
Reid was going down to the quay to look for the steamship that would bring a son whom he had not seen for five years when the accident occurred. He was about 70 years old and somewhat deaf.

The son, George Reid, has now arrived in Hardwick from New Zealand. George Reid, Sr., had been in this country only one year. He made his home with his daughter, Mrs. Davidson, in Hardwick.

LABOR IN ENGLAND.

Steady Increase in Membership Among the British Unions.

From a report on British trade unions, recently issued by the chief register of the Friendly Societies, it is shown that this form of labor organization is steadily increasing in membership and strength. Returns were received for 1906 from 645 unions, with membership of 1,719,081, an increase of 151,512 over the report of the previous year. Their income for the same period was approximately $13,500,000, an increase of $700,000. Their expenditures aggregated $11,400,000, or $1,100,000 less than the year previous.

At the present time the funds of some of the unions total $20,000,000, of these the leading ones being the Amalgamated Society of Engineers, whose funds are estimated to be $3,000,000; the Amalgamated Cotton Spinners, with $2,400,000, and the Durham Miners' union, with $1,850,000.

Taking the returns for the decennial periods since 1889, the growth of British trade unionism is found to be even more remarkable. In that year the membership was 340,803; in 1896, 1,106,507, and in 1907, 1,719,081, the corresponding income being $3,350,000, $8,940,000 and $13,500,000 respectively.
The funds on hand at each period totaled $2,800,000, $11,200,000 and $20,- 000,000, as before stated.

A LESSON IN OBEDIENCE.

(Original.)

Before I was married I had very definite notions as to the behavior of children. I agreed with all other old maids that well behaved children were at least tolerable, but badly behaved children were a nuisance, and that obedience is the fundamental principle of a child's education, and this I am endeavoring to apply to my boy Jack.
Here is a specimen of the way I do it:
"Jack, you have willfully disobeyed me. I told you distinctly scarcely ten minutes ago not to go to the sugar bowl again. I shall have to punish you."

"How?"

"I have not yet decided. I must find some way to impress upon your mind that obedience is absolutely essential."

"Are you going to hurt me?"

"Not by giving you pain. I wish to make you sorry for what you have done."

"When are you going to begin?"

"To begin? Well, that will depend upon the nature of the punishment."

"Physical punishment?"

"What's that?"

"Come, come! Stop these questions.
Little boys of your age can't be expected to understand such things."

"Why?"

"I made no reply. The question was repeated."

"Didn't I tell you to stop asking questions. If you ask another, I warn you there'll be trouble. Now sit up in that chair. I'm going to keep you there a full half hour. We'll see if I can't make you understand that when I tell you to let that sugar bowl alone you are to obey me."

Jack climbed up into the chair and sat nearly a minute without speaking; then he said:

"Mamma, I think I understand that when you tell me to let the sugar bowl alone I'm to obey you."

"But I wish to impress it on your mind so that you won't forget it."

"How long will it take?"

"No answer. I was cutting out a nightie for Jack, and I proceeded with my work without paying the slightest attention to him. There was silence for a few minutes; then he said:

"Mamma."

"No answer."

"Mamma."

"No answer."

"Mamma."

"Knowing that he would keep it up, I gave in and said:

"What?"

"When is the trouble going to begin?"

"What trouble?"

"Didn't you say that if I asked another question there would be trouble?"

"I turned away that Jack should not see my face, but didn't answer him.

"What kind of trouble is it going to be?"

"Since an answer was impossible, I went out of the room for a few minutes to escape being pressed for one.
When I returned Jack harped on another string.

"Mamma, I'm not a bad boy. At the exhibition at the kindergarten I stood up before everybody while Miss Brown said how good I'd been."

"I suppose that made you feel very fine."

"H'm! I felt funny."

"What do you mean by funny?"

"I felt a chuckle down in my stomach."

"Not wishing the gravity of the situation broken, I again turned away my face. There was no more conversation for a period of one minute, when Jack broke the silence.

"Mamma, if you'll let me get down I'll try to be good."

"It's very hard to be good, Jack, isn't it?"

"H'm! It's mighty hard for me."

"I wish to impress upon you that you must at least obey. Obedience is the first thing for a child to learn."

"Will I learn if any more by sitting here any longer?"

"You won't forget so easily."

"Another minute passed, when Jack remarked:

"Mamma, this morning I was jumping on the spring bed. I came down on the floor on my hands."

"Haven't I told you that you are not to jump on the bed? You'll ruin the mattress, and you might have hurt yourself badly."

"I didn't hurt myself. If I'd had the time I could have turned over and lit on my feet."

Jack began to get very restless. I looked at the clock. He had been punished just eleven minutes. His punishment was wearing on me far more than on him.

"Jack," I said, "if I let you get down do you think you can obey me in future?"

"Oh, yes, mamma; I know I can."

"Well, come and give me a kiss."

Jack gave me a bear hug and ran away in great glee.

In the afternoon, needing a spool of thread with which to finish Jack's nightie, I went out to buy one, leaving Jack (timorously and reluctantly) in care of a maid, with instructions to watch him carefully. When I returned on going to the dining room I found lumps of sugar mingled with fragments of my cut glass sugar bowl (a wedding present) scattered on the floor. Hearing a yell upstairs, I flew up to the third story. There was Jack with blood from his nose running over a lamp of sugar protruding from his mouth. He had been trying to jump from the bed high enough to give him time to turn over.

If ever an old maid tells me how to bring up children I'll tell her to go and get one and practice awhile.

A Comparison.

tricks," said the critical person.

"you can't ask him the time of day without his getting as excited as a cuckoo clock."—Washington Star.

Two New Labor Laws in Ohio.

As a result of their activity the trades union of Ohio have secured the passage of two bills by the present legislature which are of practical benefit to the Reynolds child labor bill and the Metzger employers' liability bill. The first one, introduced by Representative Reynolds, a member of the executive board of the International Association of Machinists, provides that no child under fourteen years of age can be employed and none under sixteen years employed more than eight hours a day. The Metzger bill is in substance the same as the national employers' liability bill. The initiative and referendum was defeated, however, and the Toledo Union Labor asserts that this action means complete obedience to those who fear placing a weapon in the people's hands whereby they could rule themselves.

LABOR NEWSPAPER SYSTEM.

Labor is to have a newspaper system covering the entire country. A syndicate has been formed and the enterprise capitalised, it is said, to the extent of issuing a paper in the cities of New York, Philadelphia, Washington, Chicago, St. Louis, Denver and San Francisco. A representative of the syndicate in this city said a few days ago that publication would begin Sept. 1 and that the policy of the company would be one of ultra conservatism, the object being to restrain the labor movement from merging with the more radical socialist element that has been making great inroads on the membership of the unions composing the skilled crafts.—Washington Star.

Thinks It Saved His Life.

Lester M. Nelson of Naples, Maine, says in a recent letter: "I have used Dr. King's New Discovery many years, for coughs and colds, and I think it saved my life. I have found it a reliable remedy for throat and lung complaints, and would be more than willing to bottle than I would be without food." For nearly forty years New Discovery has stood at the head of throat and lung remedies.
As a preventive of pneumonia, and healer of weak lungs it has no equal. Sold under guarantee at the Red Cross Pharmacy, Rickett & Wells' drug store. 50c

WASHING WITHOUT WATER

Is Like Trying to Get Rid of Dandruff Without Herpicide.

Did you ever see any one trying to wash themselves without soap or Herpicide?

It is every bit as foolish to try to get rid of dandruff and to prevent hair falling out by feeding the germs which cause it, with Cantharides, Yaseline, Glycerine and similar substances which form the principal ingredients of most so-called Hair Vigors.

Newbro's Herpicide is successful because it attacks and kills the parasitic germs which feed on the hair roots.

It is the original and only genuine scalp germicide manufactured.

Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

Two sizes—40 cents and $1.00.
